“The Best of Baroque” combines the content of the Core Knowledge Sequence with the National Standards for teaching music. Sixth grade music students will learn about listening strategies, as well as the culture, music and two prominent composers of the Baroque period, namely J.S. Bach and G.F. Handel. They will demonstrate their understanding of the content through several assessments, culminating in their choice of one of four final assessments designed to address multiple intelligences. Teaching strategies will also address current Ohio Proficiency Test Outcomes for 6th grade in Reading.

V. LESSONS
Lesson One: The Best of Baroque, A Beginning
A. Daily Objectives
1. Concept Objective(s)
   a. Gain an overview of the study of the Baroque Era and music.
   b. Become familiar with terms/skills needed for this study
   c. Self-assess understanding of terms/skills needed for this study.
2. Lesson Content
a. Review as necessary from earlier grades: The orchestra and families of instruments, keyboard instruments
b. Understand the following notation and terms: symbols for quiet and loud

3. Skill Objective(s)
a. Recognize and name instruments and their families
b. Correctly define elements of music
c. Correctly describe elements of music in aural examples.
d. Demonstrate knowledge of Baroque Era composers.

B. Materials
1. Instrument Bingo, Cheryl Lavender (CD version would work better)
2. Appendix A - Elements of Music worksheet
3. Appendix B – Listening Sheet
4. Appendix E – Group Work Scoring Rubric
5. Toccata and Fugue in D Minor, J.S. Bach (The Best of Bach CD)
6. Appendix F – Self Assessment Sheet

C. Key Vocabulary
1. review of terms from previous year.

D. Procedures/Activities
1. When students first arrive, play the first 2-3 minutes of Toccata and Fugue in D Minor, by J.S. Bach. Ask them to write down their reactions on a piece of paper.
2. Have students share their reactions. They usually say it reminds them of a scary movie.
3. Explain to them that it is not a ‘scary’ piece of music at all, but is a classical composition written by a very famous composer. Explain that they are going to learn about that composer and the time period in which he lived in the days to come. First, they have some work to do to be ready.
4. Place students in pre-determined groups, or by counting off, etc. Distribute instructions for centers. Center 1: Instrument Bingo – students play one round. Center 2: Matching of terms. Students have a sheet with terms and cards with definitions. They must find correct definitions and write them by the terms. Group 3: Listening. Have students listen to a Baroque selection and fill out a listening sheet.
5. Go over the group work scoring rubric. Explain that their ability to work in groups will be a part of their entire assessment for the unit, and that you will discuss that in detail next lesson. Have them work at the centers for 5 minutes each center. (If necessary, make two centers for each activity so all students are engaged right away, i.e., two matching of terms, two instrument bingo or two groups at instrument bingo, two listening/describing music, etc.)

E. Assessment/Evaluation
1. Give students the self-assessment sheet for homework. Tell them that they also need to bring a two-pocket folder for all of the work they will do during this unit.

Lesson Two: How Do We Listen?
A. Daily Objectives
1. Concept Objective(s)
a. The learner will listen to, analyze and describe music by describing specific music events in a given aural example, using appropriate terminology. (National Standard 6a)

2. Lesson Content
   a. Recognize frequently used Italian terms (for tempo)
   b. Understand the following [dynamic] terms: pp, p, mp, ff, f, and mf

3. Skill Objective(s)
   a. Listen to selected music and correctly identify timbre and dynamics.
   b. Listen to selected music and correctly discuss tempo and melody.

B. Materials
   1. An example of Abstract art (borrowed from Art teacher)
   2. Canon in D, Pachelbel
   3. In the Hall of the Mountain King, Grieg
   4. Appendix B – Listening Sheet (one copy as overhead, copies for students)
   5. Appendix C – Listening Sheet scoring rubric

   7. Appendix I – The Best of Baroque, An Overview

C. Key Vocabulary
   1. Review of terms from previous year/study for tempo, dynamics and families of instruments, p.146

D. Procedures/Activities
   1. Collect the students’ self-assessments. Ask if anyone would like to share any of their thoughts from their assessment.
   2. Distribute the Unit Overview Sheet, and explain to them what they will be studying and how they will be demonstrating their understanding. Point out that listening and describing what they hear will be a significant portion of their assessment. Explain that you’re going to spend time today helping them to listen and describe the music they hear.
   3. Have students look at the abstract work of art for 30 seconds. Take it away, and ask students to write down everything they can about it. Spend a few moments sharing their comments.
   4. Acknowledge that it was difficult to complete this task for more than one reason. First, the artwork was abstract, and not easily identified. Second, they weren’t told what to look for. When we’re directed ahead of time it makes looking at art work a little easier. It’s the same with music. If we understand how it’s put together and what to listen for, we won’t get lost as easily.
   5. Listen to Pachelbel’s Canon in D together. Put the Listening Sheet transparency on the overhead before listening. Distribute the listening sheet scoring rubric. Write in answers as you listen, demonstrating the type of responses expected for each section.
   6. Together, listen to “In the Hall of The Mountain King.” Students write as they listen, using scoring rubric and Listening Sheet Terms to Know. Discuss. Put all materials in folder.

E. Assessment/Evaluation
   1. no formal evaluation for this class
Lesson Three: The Background on Baroque

C. Key Vocabulary
   1. Baroque (See Appendix I for definition)

D. Procedures/Activities
   1. Listen to Fugue in C Minor. Have students fill in the listening sheet. Tell them to keep the sheet, because they will listen to the same composition in 4 days, and they will compare their responses.
   2. Ask the students to suppose that they were going to write an article for a time capsule that would explain the music of the 21st century. They couldn’t include any actual recordings, but they were to help the readers understand as much about music in the 21st century as possible. What information would they include? (Try to help them see the importance of the role society plays in the production of music, the role of the musician in society) Have them work in the same group as day one and each write down their thoughts.
   3. Share thoughts with the whole group.
   4. Tell students that we’re going to look back at another period in time – the music will sound as different to us as our music will probably sound to listeners in the year 3000. We’re going to go back to the Baroque Era. Create a K/W chart on the board. Ask what they know about the Baroque Era. Ask what they’d like to know.
   5. Divide students into groups of 3. Using the jigsaw method of cooperative learning, assign each group member a number. All ones will go to a particular place in the room, and read background information on the Baroque Era from An Illustrated History of Music for Young Musicians (pp. 7, 15). All twos will read about Life in the Baroque – how nobility... and peasants lived. (pp. 10, 12, 14) All threes will read about the life of a musician in the Baroque (pp. 22, 23). Tell them they are to write down between 6-8 facts from their reading to share with their group. When they have finished, they will report back to their first group. All members of the group will record all facts in order to do the homework, using Handout for Baroque Group Activity.

6. Distribute Appendix O. Instruct students to fill in the Venn diagram using the facts from the jigsaw activity and from their class discussion about music today.

E. Assessment/Evaluation
1. Assign Appendix O – Comparing Baroque Music and Music of Today

1. Briefly discuss the homework – comparing and contrasting music of The Baroque Era with music of today. Collect.
2. Tell students that today they begin listening to and understanding music from the Baroque Era.
3. Ask students to define melody. Once they have, tell them that they’re going to listen to a composition entitled “Invention.” Explain that an invention is a genre, or category or music. Add the definition of genre to their glossary. As the Invention is played, ask them to listen for the melody and tell what they heard. If the composition is played on a harpsichord, show them a picture of a harpsichord, and give definition for the glossary. Allow time for them to give comments about the melody.
4. Define ‘motive’ and have students add it to their glossary. Explain that the Invention is built on a motive. Listen to the composition again, and ask them to count how many times they hear the motive. Remind them that it may be in the higher part of the instrument, or it may be played in the lower part of the instrument. Allow them to tell how many times they heard the motive.

5. Define counterpoint. Explain that counterpoint was prevalent in the music of the Baroque Era, and specifically the music of J.S. Bach.

E. Assessment/Evaluation

D. Procedures/Activities
1. Have students write down and turn in their first, second and third choices for the culminating project.
2. Introduce the first section of the Junk Food Fugue. Without putting the overhead before them, ask them to tap the beat, and to see how many beats the first section of the Junk Food Fugue takes. (Explain that you’ll being speaking after their first tap. Give them preparatory beats, and go) Discover that there are 10 beats. Ask them to listen again and tell you how many snaps there are and where they are. (Snaps are on beats 1, 8 and 10)
3. Put the fugue on the overhead projector, displaying only section one.
   Say it with the class until they are comfortable. Teach sections 2 and 3.
4. After the class says the entire fugue through, have them say it again with you beginning when they reach section two. Then divide the class into two groups and have them try it. If possible, divide into three groups. In order to help hear section one at all times, assign it the dynamic marking forte, and assign the other sections quieter dynamics. Ask them to see if they can hear section one no matter who is saying it.

5. Tell them that they just spoke something quite similar to a fugue. Ask them to tell what they think a fugue is. Then give the definition and have them add it to their glossary.

6. Play the motive from Fugue in C Minor. Tell them that a motive in a fugue is called the subject—Give definition for glossary.

7. Play the Fugue in C Minor, and ask them to keep a tally of all the times they hear the subject stated throughout the composition. Remember, it can be in a high, middle or low register.

Distribute a new one, and ask them to listen to the composition and complete the form again. Ask them what they heard this time that they did not hear the first time. How did their comments change? (This one is graded. Collect and grade)

2. Read together the homework reading on Bach. Select students to answer the questions from the assignment.

3. Watch a clip from the video, Bach’s Fight For Freedom. Ask the students to take notes on their homework sheet and record any interesting information about Bach they gain from the video. They will use that information in a couple of days. (Show whatever length/portion of the video you deem appropriate.) Discuss their comments.

4. Give the students their culminating project and group assignments.

E. Assessment/Evaluation

D. Procedures/Activities
   1. Ask students to refer to their guided reading activity about J.S. Bach. Have them help you construct a time line of his life from the information given in the reading. Add to it the following facts: Was court organist and chamber musician in Weimar from 1708-1717. Left Weimer to work for the Prince of Cothen until 1723. The prince was partial to chamber music. Wife died during this time, and he married second wife. He was 38 when he applied and was accepted for the position of cantor at St. Thomas’ Church in Leipzig, where he served for 27 years. Explain that Bach had to write new music for every Sunday service. Many of his cantatas were written during this time. Define cantata. Ask if anyone has ever heard a cantata performed at certain times of the year? In Christian churches they are often performed at Christmas and Easter.
   2. Explain the different types of vocal compositions found in a cantata, and give their definitions for the glossary.
   4. If desired, play examples of an aria and a recitative.
   5. Give students time to work with their culminating project groups and decide who will do what, and who will bring what materials. Have them turn in a sheet with the details at the end of the class. Tell them that they will have class periods 10 and 11 to work on their projects, but that they must have all their supplies for those days, and that they will be graded on the work they do during those two class days.

   2. Play a few measures of the Hallelujah Chorus on the piano for the students. Ask them if anyone knows what that music is.
   3. Give background information: How Handel wrote many operas that were popular in England, but they began to lose popularity because they were in Italian, and the people wanted lyrics in their own language. He began writing oratorios – give definition for glossary.
   4. Handel wrote it in only 24 days. It is a compilation of verses from the New and Old Testaments of the Bible, set in three parts. The Hallelujah Chorus comes at the close of the second part. Share the story of the King being in attendance, and standing when he heard this composition. Everyone else stood, and the tradition continues today that audiences stand at the performing of the Hallelujah Chorus.
   5. Listen to the Hallelujah Chorus and have students complete a listening sheet. Prepare them by telling them that there is a fugue-like section in the middle of the work. The words “and He shall reign forever and ever” begin with the bass voices, then moves to the tenors, then altos, then finally sopranos.
   6. If time, students may begin Venn Diagram comparing and contrasting Bach and Handel.

E. Assessment/Evaluation
   1. Venn Diagram comparing Bach and Handel.

   2. Ask them to arrange themselves in the room according to what is written on their paper. Designate areas for each group. Ask them to comment on the size of each.
   3. Read the selection (preferably on an overhead so they can practice good posture and look up.)
   4. After they finish and return to their seats, inform them that they just performed the work much like a concerto was performed in the Baroque Era. Give the definition of concerto for their glossary.
   5. Tell them they are going to listen to a movement (section) from a set of very famous concertos written by J.S. Bach in honor of a nobleman from Brandenburg. Ask them how they might know when the tutti is playing and when the concertino is playing. (Introduce the idea of terraced dynamics)
   6. Using the listening guide (Appendix N), listen to the first movement of Brandenburg Concerto No. 2 in F Major. Have students complete a Listening Sheet on the composition.
   7. Next, listen to Handel’s Water Music. Explain that it is not a concerto but a group of dance forms put together, called a suite. The music was performed in England for a royal party on the Thames River. (Give any additional background information you deem necessary.)
   8. Ask students to comment on why the Brandenburg Concertos and the Water Music was written. Is music written today for other people? Do they know of any?

VI. CULMINATING ACTIVITY
A. Students have the option of choosing one of four culminating activities. They will work in groups to complete this project.
1. Option one – Composer Box. Students may decorate and fill a photocopy paper-sized box with items that correspond to up to 20 facts about either J.S. Bach of G.F. Handel. They will present their box to the class, by telling a fact about and showing a corresponding visual aid. Specific criteria are given to them in the form of a rubric.
2. Option two – Children’s Story. Students may write a fictional story based on a true event in the life of either Bach or Handel. A rubric is provided to the students to assist in the creation of the story, which includes illustrations.
3. Option three – CD Jacket. Students may create a CD jacket for a ‘new’ CD to be produced of 5 compositions of either Bach or Handel. The CD jacket includes a cover, biography, listing of selections and a critique of one of the compositions on the CD. A rubric is provided with all the requirements.
4. Option 4 – Time Line. Students may create a time line with up to 20 facts about either Bach or Handel, as well as 20 events from history that took place during the composer’s lifetime. At least half of the history facts must be from United States History. A rubric gives students all the criteria for the timeline.

If you enjoy creating and decorating, this project is for you! The composer box is a large box with a lid (photocopy paper box) that you decorate and fill with all the information you need to tell us about your composer, J.S. Bach or G.F. Handel. Each item in the box will represent one fact about your composer. You will use it as a visual aid when you present your composer to the class. Here’s what needs to be included in your box.
